With beauty borrowed from the true; Around Palamou's flowery shrine Their maze of grace the maidens wound. And wove the wreaths of Isthmian pine

Wherewith the victors' brows were crowned And we to-day, amidst our flowers And fruits, have come to own again The blessings of the summer bours,

The early and the latter rain; With manhood's strength and maiden's glance, To lend our Christian holiday The beauty of the Persian dance, The vigor of the Grecian play;

To see our Father's hand once more Reverse for us the pleuteous horn Of autumn, filled and running o'er With fruit and flower and golden corn. Once more the liberal year laughs out

O'er richer stores than gems or gold; Once more with harvest song and shout Is Nature's bloodless triumph told; Our common mother rests and sings Like Ruth among the garnered sheaves; Her lap is full of goodly things,

Her forehead gay with autumn leaves! Oh, favors old, yet ever new! Oh, blessings, with the sunshine sent! The bounty overruns our due,
The fullness shames our discontent,

We shut our eyes, the flowers bloom on; We murmur, but the corn-ears fill; We choose the shadow, but the sun That casts it shines behind us still.

God gives us with our rugged soil, The power to make it Eden-fair, And richer fruits to crown our toil Than summer-wedded islands bear,

Who murmurs at his lot to-day? Who seerns his native fruit and bloom Or sighs for dainties far away, Beside the bounteous board of home?

Thank Heaven, instead, that Freedom's arm Can change a rocky soil to gold; That brave and generous lives can warm A clime with northern ices cold! And by these altars, wreathed with flowers

And piled with fruits, awake again

Thanksgiving for the golden hours, The early and the latter rain. Somebody in the Atlantic Monthly, in discoursing upon the skeleton fashion of the day, says:

"A woman in this rig bangs in her skirts like a clapper in a bell, and I never meet one without being tempted to take her by the neck and ring her." Speaking of the way women display their arms and shoulders, skinny or otherwise,

"Now, a woman has legs as well as arms, and why, if it be the custom, should not one
